FY3/21 Results

FY3/21 Consolidated Results (Summary)

Net sales: increased year-on-year due to the opening of new facilities and an increase in the number of children accepted in existing facilities

[Supplementary Material] Environment Surrounding Childcare Support

Environment surrounding childcare support

•The number of children on waiting lists decreased steadily, and it has dropped over 50% in the past 3 years. As the situation varies among regions, the importance of support according to regional characteristics will increase.

(No. of children on waiting lists as of April 2020: 12,439, down 4,333 year on year). Prefectures with many children on waiting lists: Saitama, Chiba, Tokyo, Kanagawa, Osaka, and Hyogo

•Establishment of a system for social welfare coordination promotion organization

It will become possible to form “a social welfare coordination promotion organization,” a non-profit organization comprising mainly of social welfare corporations (which can lend funds, recruit staff, and jointly purchase equipment and goods).

•The ratio of employed women is rising. As it is estimated to reach 82% in 2025, it will be necessary to increase childcare centers.

(Ratio of employed women in April 2020 was 77.7%.)

•The decrease of children accelerated by COVID-19 (The number of births will drop significantly in 2021.)

The number of births was 848,000 in 2020, and is estimated to decrease 7.5% to 784,000 in 2021. The decrease of children is projected to progress 10 years earlier than initially estimated due to the spread of COVID-19.

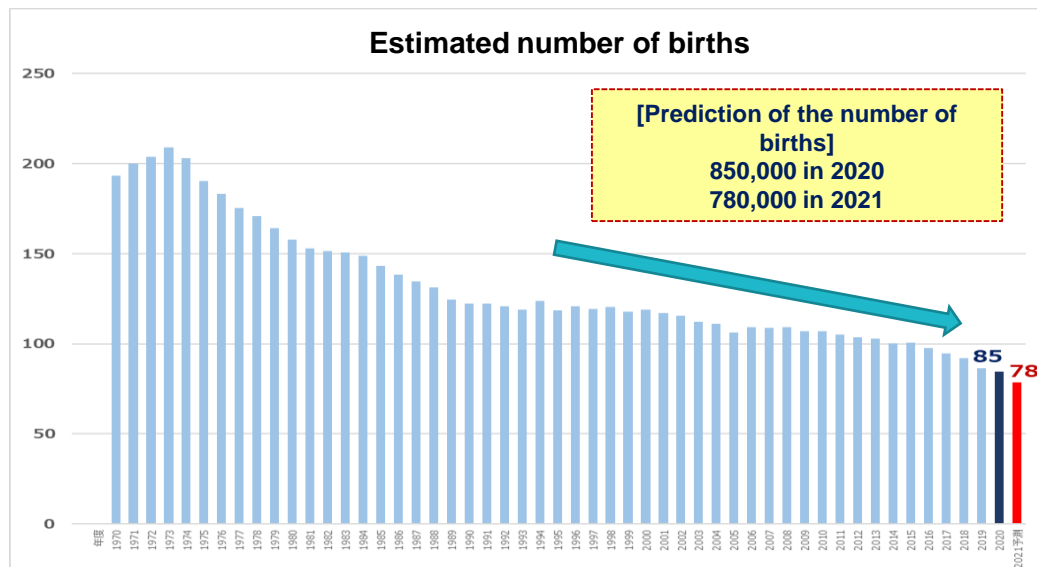

•In 60% of 23 wards of Tokyo and ordinance-designated cities, the number of applications for entry to licensed nursery schools fell below the capacity. To prevent the spread of COVID-19, people tend to refrain from entrusting a nursery school with childcare.

In 17 cities accounting for 60%, the rate of enrollment is below 100%. The number of such wards/cities almost doubled from last year (8 cities). There is the trend of extension of a childcare leave for decreasing the risk of infection.

•The government plans to establish the Agency for Children, which will take measures in an unified manner, for the ideal administration for children.

Considering the situation in which nursery schools are supervised by the Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare, kindergartens by the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology, and licensed children’s school by the Cabinet Office, the government plans to unify the management of them.
